

To whom it may concern

Happily, together with the loosening of the COVID-19 lockdown measures, normality is slowly returning. Nevertheless, the population remains somewhat uncertain about the situation. Employers are starting to feel this more and more, and the first large companies such as Helsana or Credit Suisse are offering their employees free antibody tests as a result. The Lucerne newspaper has already reported on this.

We expect the topic to get even more attention with the opening of the borders and the upcoming summer holidays and we want to support you with a new offer.

We are now offering interested companies from the region tests on site for COVID-19. The process would look like this:

- Our team will visit you on site in your company.
- Your employees come by in stages, get medical advice and then test for a COVID-19 infection.
- We offer the following tests:
 - COVID-19 nasal throat swabs (PCR test), which provide information about a current infection of the tested person
 - COVID-19 antibody tests (IgG tests), which indicate whether the test person had already had contact with the virus in an earlier phase
- The test results are communicated to the employees by telephone within 1 to 3 days and, of course, treated confidentially. If a corresponding power of attorney is available, the results can also be communicated to the employer.

You can find more information about the tests we offer on our website:

Why can this offer be interesting for my company?

After opening the borders, many employees will spend their vacation in nearby countries. A COVID-19 test before starting work can better protect both, the work colleagues and your customers and underpin your duty of care as an employer. By offering an antibody test, you can take away some uncertainty from your employees about their immune system so that they can concentrate fully on their work.

Interested? We offer the service at a flat rate, which is based on the desired scope of services and the number of employees. Let us know how we can support you. We look forward to hearing from you by phone +41 41 226 11 46 or via email address mail@medcenter.ch.

We wish you good health and best regards
Your MedCenter Team
